A message from Susan...

I am an avid reader and don't feel it necessary to banish a novel once read. Perhaps it is the author in me that knows how many hours it takes to write a novel that makes me want to keep and treasure stories.

When I find an author I like, I tend to read all their books especially if they are in a series. However, keeping track of what I've read can be a challenge for my memory, particularly if the publisher and/or the author changes the cover design. I have been known to buy the same book twice. How do I keep track? I designed a book tracking journal. The original paperback version is available on Amazon, A Book Tracking Journal for Ladies who Love to Read.

Today it is my pleasure to share with you the Forget-me-not Journal for Readers – Books I've Read. Not for commercial use but please feel free to copy the pages for your own personal use.
